Joining the community for evening with Robertson Davies

Bessie's Books and Other Things

Bessie Sullivan
Library CEO

Robertson Davies is about as iconic a writer as Canada is likely to produce. His works include novels, criticism, essays, speeches, plays and more. He was an eccentric, shy man who somehow managed to become one of the best known and loved writers in Canada. As stated by Douglas Gibson in Stories about Storytellers: Publishing Alice Munro, Robertson Davies, Alistair MacLeod, Pierre Trudeau, and others: "More than one literary critic has suggested that perhaps this fine novelist's greatest character creation was himself." Mr. Davies experienced stage fright every time he was to speak for his entire life; he viewed public speaking as a performance to be rehearsed and prepared for, but always to be done well. His eccentricities are well represented in some of his more memorable quotes, "Authors like cats because they are such quiet, lovable, wise creatures, and cats like authors for the same reasons." In 1940, he married an Australian stage manager named Brenda Mathews who obviously shared his love of the stage. They would share 55 years together and had three daughters. Robertson Davies died 20 years ago, so what is the current fascination with him and his life?

This year is the 50th anniversary of Haliburton County Public Library as an amalgamated county library system. Throughout this year we have been celebrating 50 years and as one of our celebrations we undertook a One Book, One Community campaign to encourage as many people as possible in the county to read a book. But what book? The summer sessions of CanoeFM's Haliburton County Reads saw five community members putting forth a book they thought everyone in the county should read, the final book standing was Fifth Business by Robertson Davies. Over the last few months we have shared the difficulties of choosing a book where the author is no longer with us, where the book often conjures school time memories having been heavily used in Canadian high school curriculum, and where the book was written 45 years ago. However, at the time of writing this the library's copies of Fifth Business had circulated 58 times since we launched the campaign on Sept. 1. As a celebration of both the end of the One Book, One Community Campaign as well as our 50th year as a library system, we are holding An Evening with Robertson Davies at Baked and Battered on Dec. 6 at 6:30 p.m. The evening will include a three course meal, shrimp appetizer, curry and salad main, as well as dessert. Musical entertainment to be provided by the band… wait for it… Fifth Business, and as a special treat there will be a reasonable Robertson Davies facsimile to host the evening. Tickets are $35 and can be purchased by calling the library administration office at 705-457-2241.

The final paragraph in Davies's final novel, The Cunning Man, sums up his notion, not unlike Shakespeare, that our lives are our parts in a giant play.

"This is the Great Theatre of Life. Admission is free but the taxation is mortal. You come when you can, and leave when you must. The show is continuous. Goodnight."

Secrets to holiday baking success

Baking is popular come the holiday season, when baked goods are often gifted or shared with family and friends at holiday gatherings. Individuals turn out sweet treats left and right, and these treats are often gobbled up by appreciative holiday revelers.

Although some people have mastered baked goods, others can benefit from a few tricks of the trade. Utilize these tips to make holiday baking that much easier.

- Overworked cookie dough may result in dry cookies. Try not to handle dough more than is necessary to roll it out to desired thickness. When rolling the dough, put it between two pieces of waxed paper to reduce flour usage on the rolling pin.
- When baking brownies or other bar-type cookies, line the inside of the pan with greased aluminum foil. This way you can lift out the dessert and cut it neatly instead of risking sticking.
- The same technique can be used when baking cookies. Line cookie sheets with parchment paper and bake as directed. The cookies should slide right off when done, and you won't have messy pans to wash afterward.
- Double-check your oven temperature with a reliable thermometer to make sure it is accurate. This will help you bake more efficiently and adjust the time or temperature accordingly.
- Many cookie doughs can be refrigerated or even frozen, so you can make a big batch and then spread out your baking as needed throughout the season.

Sweet sugar cookies

Holiday baking is a tradition that stretches through time. What person doesn't look forward to the treats the season brings? Cookies are often gifted to friends and family members, and they usually help complete the dessert offerings after the holiday meal.

Sugar cookies are an ideal holiday cookie because of their versatility. They can be dressed-up however you see fit, whether iced, covered in sprinkles or enjoyed as they are dunked in hot cocoa. To make successful sugar cookies, try this triple-tested recipe courtesy of Monica Buck and Good Housekeeping.

Sugar Cookies
Yields: 5 dozen cookies

1 cup (2 sticks) butter (no substitutions), softened
1/2 cup sugar
1 large egg
1 tablespoon vanilla extract
3 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
Frosting (optional)
Coarse sugar crystals, silver dragees, holiday decors (optional decorations)

1. Preheat oven to 350 F. In large bowl, with mixer on low speed, beat butter and sugar until blended. Increase speed to high; beat until light and creamy. On low speed, beat in egg and vanilla. Beat in flour, baking powder and salt until blended.

2. Divide dough into 4 equal pieces; flatten each piece into a disk. Wrap each disk with plastic wrap and refrigerate 1 hour or until dough is firm enough to roll. (Or place dough in freezer 30 minutes.)

3. On a lightly floured surface with a floured rolling pin, roll 1 piece of dough 1/8 inch thick. With floured 3-inch to 4-inch cookie cutters, cut dough into as many cookies as possible; wrap and refrigerate trimmings. Place cookies, 1 inch apart, on ungreased large cookie sheet.

4. Bake cookies 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Transfer cookies to wire rack to cool. Repeat with remaining dough and trimmings.

5. When cookies are cool, decorate with frosting if you like; use along with sugars and candies to decorate cookies. Set cookies aside to allow frosting to dry completely, about 1 hour. Store in tightly covered container (with waxed paper between layers if decorated) at room temperature up to 2 weeks, or in freezer up to 3 months.

Addictions matter

The local health unit says reducing the negative effects of drug use needs to be a year-round effort.

Addictions and substance misuse are a serious public health issue that need constant vigilance, says Leslie McLaughlin, a public health nurse with the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit. She points to Canadian Centre on Substance Abuse (www.ccsa.ca) statistics that support her point.

Over the course of a year, youth 15 to 24 years of age report having the highest use of illicit substances compared to older Canadians. Young people in this age range are also five times more likely than adults 25 years and older to report harm because of drug use.

"Addiction is a serious problem that, left unchecked, can lead to the misuse of drugs and other substances in our community," McLaughlin says. "With many substances being highly addictive and potentially dangerous, it's in all our interests to learn more about substance abuse prevention, to talk about treatment and recovery, and to bring forward solutions for change."

Within the City of Kawartha Lakes and Haliburton County, the health unit works with other community partners to address substance misuse and addictions. These efforts include:

- Distributing sterile needles, syringes and other materials for safer injection and inhalation. In collaboration with community partners, the Needle Exchange Program serves as a safe environment to exchange used drug equipment in order to reduce the spread of bloodborne infections.
- Promoting the safe, effective and responsible use of fentanyl through the Patch 4 Patch program. Fentanyl is a powerful painkiller prescribed by doctors that is increasingly being misused. In collaboration with physicians, pharmacists and patients, the Patch 4 Patch program works as a 'one in and one out' model in which patients are asked to return used fentanyl patches to the pharmacy before they are able to receive more patches.
- Creating a region-wide drug strategy with community partners across City of Kawartha Lakes, Haliburton County and Northumberland County to address and coordinate initiatives dealing with harm reduction and substance misuse.

"Preventing addictions and substance abuse pays off in so many ways," McLaughlin says. "Not only does it reduce costs for an already strained health and treatment system, most importantly it can help to save lives."

If you want more information about local supports and programs, call the health unit toll-free at 1-866-888-4577.

Where to go this winter?

Linda Coneybeare Travel Plus

Machenzie and I at Travelplus are busy booking our clients to warm destinations for their winter vacations. As always, Cuba, Mexico and the Dominican Republic are our top selling destinations

However, a very popular destination for the last few years is the island of Roatan. This is a great, low key resort destination for those looking for a great snorkelling and diving vacation but not a lot of nightlife.

Both Machenzie and my daughter Chloe have vacationed in Roatan and loved it!

There is just once a week departures to Roatan so this destination sells out quickly.

A very important travel requirement that we make sure our clients are told about is the fact that passports must be valid for six months beyond the scheduled return date- and if a traveller shows up at the airline counter without this passport requirement they are denied boarding!

New for 2016 with Transat is the amazing island of Curacao – one of the Dutch ABC islands – Aruba, Bonaire and Curacao. The Sunscape Resort Spa and Casino is a great all inclusive resort that is very popular.

Curacao offers a Caribbean vacation with a European flair-the capital city of Willemstad is so beautiful, with colourfully painted buildings and great duty-free shopping. This is definitely a popular destination this winter for beach lovers

The Mayan Riviera and Jamaica are always two of our top selling destinations. Machenzie vacationed in Jamaica this spring, and last year stayed at one of the exclusive Karisma properties in the Mayan Riviera. Machenzie is a Karisma specialist so she is definitely someone you want planning your vacation to this exclusive resort chain

I have been very fortunate in 2015 to have had two amazing trips: first to Provence and the Cote d'Azur in the French Riviera with my daughter Chloe, then in early October to amazing Iceland. I am still raving to anyone who will listen about Iceland. It is so beautiful! Truly it is the land of fire and ice: glaciers and lava flows, and don't forget about those steam fissures that I got to stand over!

Next up for me is the ancient country of Jordan. Yes I know it is surrounded by less-than-friendly countries such as Syria, Iraq and Saudi Arabia-just to name three! However it has a very stable government, led by King Abdullah. I will be well cared for by the Jordanian Tourist Board. I have wanted to visit Petra and Wadi Rum ever since I first watched Lawrence of Arabia and now I am off to do just that!

Two is Better than One

By Barbara Rosen

"Where's my watch?" I was dressed and ready to leave the cottage. The wall clock powered by an AA battery signalled 9:10 a.m. giving me enough time to drive to Haliburton to take care of housekeeping concerns – well, cottagekeeping concerns in this case, before "horsey" yoga followed by lunch at my friend's place. "What's 'horsey' yoga?" You may ask. There are all kinds of practices paired with hatha yoga these days: laughter yoga, boot camp yoga, hot yoga, chair yoga and on it goes. This horsey yoga is helping to open me up in a whole new way. After practising an hour of hatha yoga I feel connected to body, breath and spirit and then when I wander out into the field with the horses I'm practicing being open to their unpredictable behaviour that forces me to be in the present moment, watching my boundaries, theirs and mine, being respectful, conscious of space and on it goes.

I remembered I had done the laundry yesterday, not by machine but by hand. The weather was almost summery this November day. I heat up water in a big metal "shisel" (a Jewish word for pot), put a little detergent in and soak the clothes. After, in another "shisel" I rinse them, wring them out, hang them on the line to dry in the open air. I love the fresh smell of the clothes dried in the open air. Looking for my watch, I remembered about the laundry and wandered out on the porch. "My watch!" Keeping me conscious of time! "My bracelet!" Keeping me mindful of being aware. As I checked my watch it signalled 9:45 a.m. and it was working. "Must have been the dampness" and I reset it to the wall clock time.

I gathered my belongings included the gluten free carrot soup I made for our lunch, made in the slow cooker with a chicken soup base, fried onions, garlic, ginger and carrots and then pureed, salt and pepper added and a little almond breeze and sprinkled with sunflower seeds just before serving.

I started up my car and drove up the cottage road. "What a blessing this weather!" I can still drive up the hill. In winter, when the road is snow covered, I park my car at the top and walk up or down, loading my needs on a toboggan and a knapsack. 9:50 a.m. signalled the car clock. Hmm... And my watch had signalled 9:45am. "Two – in this case, time pieces – is better than one," I chuckled remembering the teaching of Ecclesiastes, as I stepped hard on the gas.

Snow business

Living Large

Humour by Steve Galea

It's late November and we've certainly dodged the bullet. As I write this, snow is in the air, but the flakes I'm seeing remind me of gnats on a spring day – far and few between, though just as annoying.

More snow, of course, will follow. And, if precedent proves correct, some of it will force me to use a shovel once and then fake back injury for the remainder of winter.

But, as of now at least, we are smack dab in the middle of that wonderful period where we can imagine winter as we wish it to be.

Here are a few things that would make this winter great for me.

1. Lots of snow around my house. So much snow, in fact that every major snow blower manufacturer in the world would pay me to use my driveway, walkways and back deck as a testing facility.
2. The invention of self-packing snow. Packing snow is one thing, but self-packing snow – which actually packs itself into ready-to-use snowballs would save me lots of time and make snowball fights much more efficient.
3. Larger snowflakes. I'm no different than the next person. I love to admire the uniqueness of snowflakes. The problem is my reading glasses always seem to fog up. This wouldn't be an issue if our snowflakes were about the size of a dinner plates.
4. A spring thaw every three weeks. That way I could keep up with cleaning up after my dogs.
5. I'd like to see a wall of snow about three feet thick wrap itself around my house, except for the doorways and and windows. I could use a little more insulation.
6. Pre-made holes in the ice. If I had my way, ice would form so that an eight-inch circular hole remained open every 20 feet or so. If we could just figure out how to do this, we'd be the ice fishing capital of the world.
7. Coloured snow. I don't know about you but I'm getting bored of just white and yellow.
8. Flavoured snow. Think of all the money this would save us on snow cones. We could start with grape.
9. Lower the hot air column. We all know that hot air rises, which is great for you tall people. In winter, I suspect that the hot air column is up around two gazillion feet. If we could just find a way to lower it so my runny nose doesn't freeze on my moustache, I'd be happy.
10. Table salt on the roads. At least we could recycle it.

Highlands Summer Festival announces 2016 season lineup

By Darren Lum

The Highlands Summer Festival artistic producer Scot Denton announced this upcoming summer lineup of five performances to the packed crowd on Sunday at the McKeck's restaurant in Haliburton. The season kicks off with the very popular musical Oliver./DARREN LUM Staff

There was raucus applause when the Highlands Summer Festival artistic producer Scot Denton announced this upcoming summer lineup of five performances to the packed crowd on Sunday at the McKeck's restaurant in Haliburton.

Kicking off the theatrical series of shows on July 4 is the well-known and popular musical, Oliver.

Denton has been with the show for 11 years and said Oliver is something he has wanted to produce for a while. This play by Lionel Bart is based on Charles Dickens' classic, Oliver Twist.

The story is centred on an ensemble cast of characters who survive the streets of London in the early 1800s.

This season will also feature Canadian writer Norm Foster's comedy Old Love during the last two weeks of July.

This play is a "rip-roaring farce" that is set against the backdrop of the 1920s, following the war.

"It's a wonderfully funny story about love and courtship. As two people aware of their feelings for each other over the years, but kept apart by circumstances (typically other people). They eventually get it right. It's a unique story told in that special way that nobody does better than Norm Foster," he said.

Third in the lineup is Noël Coward's comedic play Fallen Angels.

"Written in 1925, an outrageous and shocking in 1925 ... it's the story of two ladies who are married – Julia and Jane as they spend an evening together both enthralled and terrified that Maurice is going to visit. Before they married their husbands, Maurice was a romance for each of them ... the husbands are away golfing. As they get in the champagne they wonder what they are going to do when Maurice comes," he said.

These three will be in-house productions and auditions for the festival are on Jan. 23 and 24.

Tom Allen, a CBC radio personality, headlines his production of the Judgement of Paris, which combines cabaret, history and storytelling.

Set against the rise of the First World War, the play is about a musical duel between composers of the time, Maurice Ravel and Claude Debussy.

The festival press release says the play "is new and old, heroic and tragic, historical and fictional."

The cast includes Kevin Fox, Lori Gemmell, Bryce Kulak and Patricia O'Callaghan.

Music is by Debussy and Ravel, including original songs by the performers. There will only be three performances in July.

The award winning actor Melody A. Johnson stars in Miss Caledonia when it is scheduled for August.

Miss Caledonia follows the efforts of farm girl Peggy Ann Douglas in her pursuit of movie stardom in the 1950s. The first step in her quest is to win the Miss Caledonia pageant contest in rural Ontario.

This play is "a delightful exploration of optimism and reality down on the farm."

Johnson is accompanied in her staging by fiddler Alison Porter.

"It's charming and wonderful and gets standing ovations all the time," Denton said.

He adds three of the five performances this year are from Canadians: Johnson, Allen and Foster.

Season passes for all five shows are on sale for $150. With single ticket prices being $34, the season pass value is close to giving the purchaser one free show.

Call 705-457-9933 or toll-free 705-855-9933 for tickets or for more information on the festival see its website www.highlandssummerfestival.on.ca.
